

Young British Designers at

urban living interiors

Mark Riese, creative director, of urban living interiors is passionate about seeking out the work of young, new British Designers. He is currently dedicating the front of the showroom in Great Portland Street to exhibiting and selling the work of a group of talented designers just starting out on their careers.

Adam Collins is one of the Designers whose work is currently being exhibited. His furniture collection is inspired by the bold shapes and forms of Britain's industrial past. The limited run pieces are individually handcrafted combining fabricated steel arches and blades with wood and glass to create a fresh, contemporary aesthetic.

The Archie Bar Stools are constructed with an innovative laminated steel and wood blade that supports the cantilevered seat. The beautiful, solid wood is shaped by hand for comfort and the stool swivels for ease of use. Each stool is made to order and individually finished in a durable and waterproof lacquer to allow both indoor and outdoor use. Customers can choose the type of wood as well as the colour and finish applied to the steelwork to create a fully bespoke piece.

Stools: height 70cm, seat diameter 35cm
Price: £950

Says Adam "I have attempted to create a stool that is unique in both its style and its construction. The natural curve of the slender blade is elegant and explores the limits of the materials".

The Archie Desk (shown here) and Dining Table finished in Mahogany and coloured steel has industrial style beams handcrafted from sheet steel to form elegant, incredibly strong arches. Wood and steel are laminated to combine and enhance their structural properties in order to create the slender supports for the glass top. Colour, finish and wood type can be specified to create a truly bespoke piece. A durable weatherproof lacquer finish on the wood and steel make the tables well suited to both indoor and outdoor dining.

Archie Desk: 60cm x 140cm £3,950
Bespoke desk and dining sizes available.

Says Adam "We like to use colour with wood to soften and contrast the bold industrial shapes of the table".
